

XMRadio has as much right to offer services to their customers as do the local radio broadcasters. The similarity between satellite radio and local broadcasters when compared to cable television and satellite television are apparent. Both businesses are able to exist simultaneously and flourish and radio is no different.